Another Saturday of chaos at Riis. The baseball diamonds were taken over by the Public League cross-country races and hundreds of spectators. The Striders had to park blocks away from the park. Luckily, Dan Berry came to Riis for his decade visit and he laid out the emergency course he invented years ago. He came in from Colorado to run with the Striders and is quickly leaving the Chicago area to go back to a safer place. Agnes Berkovic brought out her Marathon medal with the time engraved on the back and paczki donuts but had to leave early so the Striders had to eat all of them. Bill Thom fired up his drone after the race and terrorized the people in the park.
